THE

SOUTH-CAROLINA GAZETTE,

Containing the freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

Monday, October 3*d*, 1743. [Numb. 497.]

The following Paragraphs contain a ſhort and comprehenſive View of the State of Affairs in Europe, in the Month June laſt.

TURKY.

UPON the Schah Nadir's having aſſembled a very great Army, which he has divided into three Bodies, Two of which march for the Black Sea, and the Third towards Erzerum, We are ſending a conſiderable Army towards our Frontiers, and equipping a numerous Fleet on the Black Sea; the Schah's Letters to the Sultan and Grand Vizir import, that ſince they would not ſend ſome Doctors, learned in the Law, to inſtruct him as to the Points controverted amongſt the different Sects of Mahometans, he reſolved to come in Perſon to the Frontiers of Turky, that he might be more at Hand to clear up his Doubts; the Grand Vizir's Anſwer was, that the Doctors of the Law were juſt ſetting out to wait on his Highneſs, and that they only ſtaid for an Eſcort of 30,000 Janiſſaries and ſome other Troops.

SAVOY.

The King of Sardinia, in order to remove all Suſpicions about his Deſigns, has admitted an Auſtrian Garriſon into the Citadel and Town of Novarra, having withdrawn his own Troops to ſtrengthen his Army in Piedmont; and has cauſed it to be declared at ſeveral Courts, that the Report of his treating with the King of Spain was void of all Foundation; ſo far from it, that his Majeſty has iſſued Letters of Array, by which all the Nobility of Piedmont are required to attend him at a Day aſſigned, to march into this Dutchy of Savoy.

GERMANY.

The Emperor's Commiſſary at the Dyet has preſented his Majeſty's Conſent to the Reſolution of the Germanick Body to employ their Mediation with that of the Maritime Powers, for reſtoring Peace in the Empire.

At the End of laſt Month, the Earl of Stair arrived near Frankfort, and paſſed the Mayne with Part of the Army, and on the 31ſt the French approaching, the Troops of the Allies were under Arms all Day, when finding that the French had their whole Army, with a numerous Artillery, they thought fit (having no Cannon) to draw off to their old Camp near Hanau and repaſs the Mayne, at Kieſerbach the Night following, and the next Day the Earl diſpatch'd a Courier, with Orders to the Heſſians and Hanoverians and to two Bodies of Engliſh and Hanoverian Horſe at Newbuid, to join him with the utmoſt Expedition. The French advance and place Artillery on the Banks of the Mayne, receive Reinforcements, are 60,000 ſtrong, and ſend a Party under M. Segur to Marſhal Broglio. On the 5th the allied Army arrived at the Camp near Hanau. On the 7th in Purſuance of a Reſolution taken in a grand Council of War, they ſeized the important Paſs of Aſchaffenburgh upon the Mayne. The French had a Deſign to take Poſſeſſion of the Bridge there, but came too late. The King of Great-Britain, and the Duke of Cumberland came to Aſchaffenburgh on the 8th.

The Emperor who on the 28th paſt left Munich and went to Augſburg, which City, after he had from the Top of a Caſtle ſeen General Nadaſti take Freiſberg, he left on June 15, after Noon, and arrived with the Prince Royal, at Frankfort, on the 17th in the Morning. His General, Count Seckendorff, who lies at Ingolſtadt, agreed to a Suſpenſion of Arms with Prince Charles, who with the other Auſtrian Generals have taken Poſſeſſion of Landſhut, Moſburgh, Munich, Wilſing, Amberg, Kalheim, Straubingen, Staubam-hoff, Egra, Braunau, and other Places, ſeveral of which were abandoned by Marſhal Broglio, who withdraws his Garriſons, and flies before Prince Charles; in order to avoid a Battle. On the 18th he was got with his Army as far as Donawert, in his Way to the Army of Marſhal Noailles. Here the Palatine Troops left him, the Elector deſiring to remain Neuter. Several Bodies of Auſtrian Troops are alſo marching to join the Allies Army.

RUSSIA.

By the Treaty lately concluded between the Empreſs and Great Britain for 15 Years, it is ſtipulated, that the Empreſs ſhall furniſh his Britannick Majeſty, as ſoon as required, with a Body of 12,000 Troops to be employ'd according to the Exigency of Affairs; and that Great Britain ſhall furniſh Ruſſia with 12 Men of War, on the firſt Notice, in caſe either of them are attack'd by an Enemy, and demand ſuch Succour. There has been an Engagement between the Ruſſian and Sweeiſh Fleets, and both Sides claim the Advantage.

SWEDEN.

On Advice that a Preliminary Convention with Ruſſia was ſigned by the Plenipotentiaries, the Senate met at Stockholm, but the Peaſants ſtill inſiſts on the Election of the Pr. of Denmark to the Succeſſion, and 35,000 Peaſants were coming to ſupport it from Dalecarlia, near which Province the King of Denmark has ordered 10,000 Norwegians to aſſemble, alſo his Fleet to put to Sea.

SPAIN.

The Inhabitants of Catalonia have abſolutely refuſed to go as Recruits to Don Philip's Army, in Savoy, and will obey no Officers on that Head. Three Magazines of the Carraca Arſenal at Cadiz, Value 16,000 l. were lately burnt.

ITALY.

The 15 Spaniſh Veſſels lately arriv'd with Artillery and Ammunition for the Army of Count de Gages, we hear are block'd up by two Engliſh Men of War; which is the more unlucky, as they are in great Need thereof, and indeed in a bad Condition.

HOLLAND.

The following Relation of the late Battle near Dettingen, has been publiſh'd here as the moſt certain and impartial.

THE Earl of Stair being informed that 6000 Heſſians, and 6000 Hanoverians were at Hand, reſolved to make a Motion to the Right, in order to approach Hanau, and facilitate his Junction with them; in Conſequence of which, the Army march'd all Night between the 26th and 27th. Marſhal Noailles was informed of this, Time enough to cauſe two Bridges to be thrown over the Mayne at Steinheim, and to paſs 30,000 of his beſt Troops, among whom were thoſe of the Houſhold. The Earl of Stair having Notice of this about Four in the Morning, ſent to acquaint the King with it, who was ſtill at Aſchaffenburgh. That General ſuſpecting however that Marſhal Noailles intended to attack his Rear-Guard, becauſe he had with him only a Part of his Army, ordered his Forces to halt, and then drew up in Order of Battle, near the Village of Dettingen. The King repaired ſpeedily to the Army with his Guards, and ordered the reſt of the Troops to advance. Tho' the French did not expect to find the whole Army of the Allies in Motion, they advanced nevertheleſs in very good Order, with a Deſign to attack them before they were form'd. This they did with prodigious Vigour. The Troops of the Houſhold fell on the firſt Line of the Engliſh, who ſuſtain-ed the Attack with great Firmneſs; they were timely ſupported by the Duke of Aremberg at the Head of the Auſtrians, and their joint fire ſoon threw the French into Confuſion. A Battery of the Allies on their Left (this was the Hanoverian Artillery) was of great Uſe to them. It was covered, and when the Right Wing of the French was within its Reach, they were received with a general Diſcharge of Cartridge Shot, which threw them into abſolute Diſorder. The Engliſh Cavalry and Dragoons purſued them to the Mayne; Part of the ſecond Line threw themſelves into a Wood.

The King, during the whole Action, which laſted 6 Hours, was in the Heat of it, ſometimes on Horſeback, ſometimes on Foot. His Preſence contributed greatly to the ſucceſs of the Day. There were only a Part of the Hanoverians in the Action, the reſt remaining near Aſchaffenburg. The Duke of Aremberg, who diſtinguiſh'd himſelf greatly on this Occaſion, receiv'd a Shot in his Shoulder, which oblig'd him to be carried off. The Flemiſh Troops, in Emulation of the Engliſh, perform'd Wonders. The Duke of Cumberland was in the Midſt of the Fire, and received a Shot thro' his Leg.

It is computed that the French had 6000 Men killed on the Spot, beſides a great Number made Priſoners; amongſt whom there are ſome Lieutenant Generals, and abundance of Field Officers. The Houſhold have ſuffer'd the moſt; they have left 10 Pieces of Cannon, with ſeveral Colours and Standards. The Allies have had 1500 kill'd, and amongſt them General Clayton, who is very much regretted. Their Army paſſed the Night under Arms in the Field of Battle, and continued their March next Day towards Hanau; the French did the ſame on the other Side the Mayne towards Offenbach.

SOUTH-CAROLINA GAZETTE,
Numb. 497.

Copy of a Letter from a Lieutenant on board the Centurion, (one of Comm Anſon's Squadron) to his Brother in London, dated Macao, Dec. 1, 1742.

Dear Brother,

I Take this Opportunity by Capt. Saunders, who goes home in a Swediſh Ship a Paſſenger, to inform you, that there's ſtill a ſmall Remainder of that once glorious Squadron, which would have ſwept the South Seas, but that the great God thought otherwiſe, and daſh'd our Deſigns by Storms and Tempeſts, which occaſion'd Diſeaſes and Separations, inſomuch, that 'twas with the greateſt Mercy that thoſe few of us which got round Cape Horn ever reach'd a Place to ſhelter in. Yet the ſame God which ſhew'd us thoſe Perils, aſſiſted us in our great Diſtreſs, by offering us an Hoſpitable Iſland (after bearing the Seas five Months) with Plenty of Fiſh, Water, Greens, and ſome Goats. At our Arrival at this Iſland, we had buried above half our Ship's Company, and brought in Sick above 150 more. We ſoon found the Benefit of the Land by our People recovering their Healths; yet many of thoſe put on Shore were too far gone ever to recover. Here we paſſed our Time, recovering our Healths, and fitting our Ships, in order to do ſome Matters in thoſe Seas, hoping the reſt of our Squadron would drop in by Degrees; but we were deceived. After ſtaying three Months, our Squadron conſiſted only of the Centurion, Glouceſter, and Tryal Sloop; the two latter having buried more Men in Proportion than we.

On September 3, 1741, as we were all riding at Anchor, at this Iſland called Juan Fernandez, we ſaw a Ship at Sea. We immediately got on board our Ship and ſail'd after her, but Night reſcued her from us. However, at our Return, Providence threw her Conſort in our Way. She was about 450 Tons with 67 Men, worth 18,000 l. Sterling in Dollars, with ſome wrought Plate, and a rich Cargo. We carried her into our Iſland, to ſhew our Friends there, that there were ſome Pickings up to be had.

Sept. 15, 1741, we diſpatched the Tryal to cruize off Valperigo, and the Glouceſter, as ſoon as ſhe ſhould get ready, to ſail and cruize off Paita in the Lat. 5. deg. S. On the 20th we ſailed to join the Tryal off Valperigo, and fell in Company with her the 25th, who had taken a Ship of 500 Tons. The next Day the Commodore ordered the Captain and Ship's Company then belonging to the Tryal, to go on board the Prize they had taken and ſink the Tryal, for ſhe had carried away both her Maſts. We coaſted along the Coaſts of Chili and Peru, cruizing off ſeveral principal Ports; but met nothing till we came into 10 deg. of S. Lat. On Nov 6, 1741, we took a Ship of 300 Tons, with a good Cargo, but little Money. I was ordered to command this Prize.

On the 12th we took another Ship of 150 Tons, a rich Cargo, but little Money. She inform'd us, that at Paita, from whence ſhe juſt came (a ſmall fortified Town) which was about 20 Leagues off, there was a Ship ready to ſail with a good Sum of Money on board. The Commodore ordered the ſecond Lieutenant and myſelf, with a Marine Officer, and 45 Men, in 3 Boats, to take the Town, and ſecure the Treaſure. We landed on the 13th at Two in the Morning, and were ſaluted by the Fort, (which mounted 7 Guns) with two Shot. We march'd up to the Fort and attack'd it. After firing one Volley we ſtorm'd it, Sword in Hand, which made the Enemy jump over the Walls; by which Means we became Maſters of the Fort with the Loſs of one Man only kill'd, and three wounded. We had Poſſeſſion for three Days, during which Time we were employ'd in ſending on board our Ship, Money, Jewels, wrought Plate, and Proviſions. Our Plunder here we value at about 35,000 l.

On the 16th we nail'd up their Cannon and fir'd the Town; burning two King's Gallies, two Brigantines, and two Settees. Here we put all our Priſoners on Shore, and ſet ſail to join the Glouceſter, whom we met two Days after, having taken two Prizes worth 25,000 l.

We had now alarmed all this Coaſt of Peru; our Deſigns were therefore tending to the Coaſt of Mexico, to catch the Acapulco Ship, which always arrives at Acapulco by the latter End of December or January. We watered our Ship with as much Diſpatch as the Winds and Weather would permit, at the Iſland of Quibo near Panama; afterwards took a ſmall Bark, and made the beſt of our Way to intercept the Acapulco Ship. 'Twas the 29th of January, 1741-2 before we arrived on the Coaſt of Mexico; and as our Paſſage was ſo long, we feared the Ship had got into her Port: Upon which the Commodore order'd me to take a Boat arm'd, and go into the Port of Acapulco in the Night, and diſcover whether the Ship was arrived or not; or to take a Boat ſo as to gain Intelligence, and at the ſame Time not to be diſcover'd. I went according to Orders, and ſucceeded: going into the Harbour, I catched a Fiſhing boat with three Men, and carried them on board without being diſcover'd. Theſe People informed us, that the Ship was arrived ſince the 13th of January, 1741-2, and that there was a great Diſpatch made in order to unload her, for ſending her back before we appeared on the Coaſt. This Ship is reckon'd to be worth a Million Sterling. The Commodore plac'd his Squadron ſo advantageouſly round the Harbour, at 15 Leagues Diſtance from the Land, keeping two Boats, with a Lieutenant in each, to be 4 Leagues off the Harbour, that 'twas impoſſible any Thing could go in or out, but we muſt ſee them. In this Poſition we lay 'till the 20th of April. Our Water being exhauſted, and the Time of the Acapulco Ship's Sailing being expired, we concluded they ſmelt our being upon the Watch, by miſſing thoſe three Men which I had taken, tho' I had put their Boat on the Rocks, to make the Caſe ſeem plain they were drown'd. But in this the Spaniſh Jealouſy foil'd our Cunning.

We water'd our Ships, took as much as we could of the moſt valuable Part of our Prize Cargo on board, and burnt our Spaniſh Ships. On the 6th of May, 1742, we proceeded on our Voyage towards the Eaſt Indies, where we met, all this Paſſage (contrary to every Body elſe that had gone this Way) ſoul Winds, which lengthened the Voyage, and introduced the Scurvy among us to that Degree, that we ſeemed to be in much worſe Condition than when we came into the Iſland of Juan Fernandez. Yet, to add to our Afflictions, a violent Gale came on, which made our Ship very leaky, and ſo diſabled the Glouceſter, by carrying away her Maſts and ſpringing a Leak, that we were obliged to take the Captain and Ship's Company out, they not being able to keep the Ship above Water.

Our Men, by this Time, died like rotten Sheep, falling over-board 6, 8, 10, or 12 of a Day; beſides having no Proſpect of getting into a friendly Port for Refreſhment. However, in this our laſt Diſtreſs, God Almighty preſerved us; for, contrary to our Expectations, we ſaw three Iſlands that had formerly been inhabited by the Indians, who had left theſe to inhabit another about 12 Leagues diſtant. I was ordered in the Boat to look for an anchoring Place, and was met by a Boat who had Spaniards on board her, whom I took and carried on board. They discover'd to us, that this Island afforded above 10,000 Head of Cattle, with Plenty of Hogs, Lemons and Oranges, which was the only Treasure we then wanted. On the 28th of August, 1742, we anchored at these Islands, in the Latitude of 16 N. and I put all the sick People on Shore who soon found the Effects of boil'd and roast Beef.

We stayed here two Months, in which Time we gather'd some Strength, and on the 27th of October, 1742, we sail'd for the Coast of China, which is distant 500 Leagues. We arrived the 10th of November, 1742, at Macao, a Portuguese Settlement at the Mouth of the River Canton.

We are now waiting to know whether the Chinese will assist us with Necessaries to clean our Ship, and stop a Leak, which is very troublesome to us. What will be the Consequence I can't tell; and what will be our next Expedition, I am yet in the Dark.

You'll be desirous to know how my Commodore and I agree. To give you a Character of him would require a more Masterly Pen; but his Favours to me as well as all the other Officers, are sufficient Proofs of his Inclinations to serve us all. I am, Dear Brother, &c.

Admiralty-Office, June 11. Capt. Wyndham, Commander of his Majesty's Ship the Monmouth, writes in his Letter dated at Madeira the 11th of last Month, that in Company with the Medway, commanded by Capt. Cockburne, they had in the Latitude of 46: 10. and Long. 2: 25 West from the Lizard, taken a Privateer of 18 Carriage Guns, besides Swivels, and 126 Men. Her Commander's Name was Lorencus Bermer, who calls himself a Spaniard, but Capt. Wyndham takes him to be a Dunkirker; and many of his People are French. She had been 20 Days out of Bilboa.

June 14. Capt. Tyrrel, of his Majesty's Bomb Vessel the Comet, arrived the 10th Instant at Spithead, having parted with Commodore Knowles the 10th of May, about 4 Leagues N. W. from Porto Rico: He brings Letters from that Commander, dated May 3, at Sea, giving an Account, That having put his Squadron in as good a Condition as he could for Service, he sail'd from Curacoa the 20th of March, intending to have stretch'd over directly for Porto Cavallo; but by reason of a strong Lee Current, it was the 15th of April before he could come to an Anchor with his Squadron under the Keys of Barbarat, a little to the Eastward of that Place. Mr. Knowles taking a View of the Enemy's Situation, saw 12 of their smallest Ships and 3 Gallies hawl'd up to the Head of the Harbour, out of Gunshot, and two large ones, one of 60 and another of 40 Guns, moor'd close over to the other Shore, as there was not Depth of Water for them to go up the Harbour. One Ship was laid across the Channel in the Harbour's Mouth, ready to sink, to prevent their Entring, with a Chain from the Castle to her Stern, and another from her Head to the Main, where were three Fascine Batteries, which extended a considerable Length, and lately made. On a low Point, called Ponta Brava, were two other new Fascine Batteries, one of 12 Guns, the other of 7; but perceiving they were ill designed, and might be easily flanked, he thought it would be no difficult Matter to render himself Master of them; and that if the Attempt succeeded, the Guns of both might be made use of against the Castle: Accordingly it was agreed, at a general Consultation held next Morning, to send in two Ships in the Afternoon, to cannonade those Batteries, and to land the Voluntiers, with about 400 Seamen, the Detachment of Dalzell's Regiment, and all the Marines, to take Possession, after the Ships had silenced them; their Retreat being securely guarded by his Majesty's Ship the Assistance, which lay within Pistol shot of the Shore. The Ships that were sent in to cannonade the Batteries, made them quiet by Sun-set, and by Dark all Firing had ceased on both Sides; the Forces, consisting of about 1200 Men, Seamen and Soldiers, landed under the Command of Major Lucas; and on their March, which was all the Way on a Beach by the Water-side, the Commodore accompanied them in his Boat. About eleven o'Clock he heard the Van fire, and (as he apprehended) engaged with the Enemy; soon after which, 2 Guns were fired from the Fascine Batteries, and presently after he saw the Men running back in Confusion and Disorder, which they did not overcome till they had got on board. On the 21st a general Consultation of Officers was held, wherein Consideration being had of the late Miscarriage of the Seamen and Land Forces against the Fascine Batteries, it was resolved to form one General Attack, with all the Ships and Forces against the Castle and Fascine Batteries; accordingly on Sunday the 24th about Noon, a small Breeze springing up, the Commodore made the Signal and weighed, and ran down in the Order agreed on; the Assistance, Burford, Suffolk, and Norwich, to batter the Castle, and the Scarborough, Lively and Eltham, against the 2 Fascine Batteries; they began cannonading about eleven o'Clock, and continued till past nine at Night, with great Obstinacy on both Sides: The Enemy sometimes slackened their Fire, good Execution being done upon them in dismounting their Guns, beating several Embrasures into one, and silencing the Fascine Batteries; but as Night came on, they grew brisker in their Fire, and did more Mischief; and some of the Ships having expended all their Ammunition, others the greatest Part, and most of them being so shatter'd in their Masts and Rigging, as scarce to be able to set a Sail, the Commodore made the Signal to cut, and went and anchor'd about a Random-shot Distance. During the cannonading, the Enemy had sunk the Ship that lay in the Harbour's Mouth, which effectually stopped up the Channel. The next Morning the Squadron weighed, and got again under the Keys of Barbarat, to refit, and in the Evening were join'd by the Advice, which had lost Company 3 Days after they had sailed from Curacoa. On the 25th, at a general Consultation, it was agreed, that the Squadron was no longer in a Condition, to undertake any Enterprize against the Enemy; upon which the Commodore sent away the Station Ships to their respective Stations. Before he left the Coast, he agreed to an Exchange of Prisoners with the Governor of Porto Cavallo; and the Officer who was appointed by the Enemy to manage that Matter, confirmed the Accounts Mr. Knowles had received from several Deserters, as well as from the exchanged English Seamen, viz. that there were upwards of 1200 Seamen belonging to the Ships and Gallies in the Harbour, and the Factors, Companies Servants, Gunners and Soldiers, were about 300 Men more; besides about 4000 Indians, Mulattoes, and Blacks, whom the Governor of Carracas sent down, when he receiv'd Intelligence of an Attack being intended.

Copy of the Letter sent by the Queen of Hungary to Count Khevenhuller, after the Advantage gained over the Bavarians near Braunau.

Dear Count Khevenhuller,

YOU will, without Doubt, receive great Satisfaction at being informed of the Joy the News gave me, of the Enemy having been defeated near Braunau; I attribute that Success chiefly to that Blessing which the Almighty has at all times shewn to the Justice of my Cause. You, by your Wisdom and Valour, have also greatly contributed thereto. Our dear Prince Charles has not been able sufficiently to express how serviceable your Aid has been, not only upon this Occasion, but ever since his Arrival at the Army. Therefore I could not delay to testify, by this my Letter, my Satisfaction in that Respect, having at the same Time directed Major General Luchesi to assure you, that I look on this Advantage as a considerable Addition to the Services you have already render'd me and my Archducal Family. So glorious an Opening of the Campaign gives me Reason to expect Consequences no less happy and remarkable. Your well known Experience cannot fail to contribute to it more and more. Wherefore I have not the least doubt but that you will, with the same Zeal, on all Occasions, support as far as in you lies, our dear Prince Charles with your utmost Assistance and Advice. In Confidence of which, I assure you of the Continuance of my Royal Grace and Favour, and pray God to keep you, Dear Count Khevenhuller, in his holy Protection. At Prague, May, 15, 1743.
